Subject: Regulation of Retail Forex

Please leave the regulation of leverage in Forex alone! I have been trading it for several years the advancements that have been made have been wonderful. It seems that with all the other issues the government has to worry about, they really don't need to be screwing with something so minor as leverage limitations. You would significantly hamper my ability to trade and make profits, which the government already taxes as regular income.

Screw with that... Reduce taxes on profits down to just capital gains!
