I think the people running CFTC have gone overboard. They are trying to limit the FOREX market by eliminatine the little guys like myself who are trying to learn forex trading without risking a lot of money through margin requirements. They would do better by regulating the so called IB experts/gurus like the one that lost a few thousand 3 years ago for me through margin calls on a losing wheat contract..This is just like the FIFO reg that sent me overseas for awhile.I□ll probably transfer my current account overseas after this fiasco.
