To Whom It May Concern,

Please do not approve the changing of leverage for retail forex traders. For me in particular . . . this is how I am trying to make a living on. Jobs in Hawaii (as in most States) are hard to come by. I do not want to open an account overseas to just maintain the current leverage AND I also do not want to take away jobs from other Americans working for the US Brokers. They will lose their jobs if retail traders start moving accounts overseas.

Thank you for your consideration
